

Plaintiffs Accuse Electrical Union Of 'Economic Coercion'

Union Argues Its Actions Not Illegal

ELECTRICAL Union Local 367 was accused of "economic coercion" yesterday during argument on the YMCA injunction case.

The argument started at 3 p.m. with Arlington W. Williams talking first. He is a member of counsel for the YMCA and electrical contractor Matthew Kime.

He was followed by Maxwell H. Cohen, representing the union, and business agent Francis Lyons and picket Clarence Pipher Jr. Argument ended at 4:15.

Williams handed in a brief on the plaintiffs' position to President Judge Fred W. Davis. Cohen said he expected to have a brief ready in a day or two.

A point made by Cohen was that picketing "presupposes economic loss," and that without this loss it would not be effective.

Williams' first move was to answer the argument raised during earlier days of testimony that the county court had no jurisdiction, and that the case should be before the National Labor Relations Board.

The YMCA deals with no article subject to trade or barter, is dedicated only to development of the spiritual, mental, physical and social sides of young men and women, he said. Its directors are local, and its control within the county. Further, virtually all who pledged money to the building fund are Monroe residents, Williams argued.

So far as Kime was concerned, it was agreed that Kime does all his work and buys all his supplies within the State. These factors ruled out interstate commerce, said Williams, and left the county court with jurisdiction.

Dealing with a 1937 anti-injunction law and a later amendment, Williams queried, "Can peaceful picketing be enjoined (forbidden)?" He thought it could—if there was an unlawful purpose behind the picketing, Williams contended that was the case in the YMCA picketing.

"His sole and deliberate purpose was to have Kime sign a contract which would require his men to join the union even against their wishes—at the penalty of losing their jobs," Williams said, referring to the union business agent.

"Mr. Lyons admits when he gave Mr. Kime the contract he knew Kime would be performing an unfair labor act if he signed it," said Williams. "He admits that . . . he came (later) and asked him not only if he read it, but if he signed it."

The attorney termed this "part and parcel of a plan by this union to cause Kime to sign this . . . contract against the wishes of his own men."

He stressed that Lyons by his own admission had talked briefly on two occasions to one of Kime's two employees, never with the other.

Then Williams pointed up the efforts he claims the union made to have Kime sign a contract: two calls to Y general secretary John Wilson, two calls and two personal visits to Kime's shop, a visit with Y directors.

The timing of the picketing by the electrical union "is indicative," Williams argued.

"Why did they not picket before the building was at this point, when weather could cause such havoc? Why did they not wait a week, until the roof was on?" "Because they wanted to take the step when it would take a lot of courage to resist them," he went on. "The economic pressure is tremendous" because the board had spent a quarter of a million dollars already and was committed to spend a total half million of public funds on their construction contracts, said Williams.

"It strains human credulity," he said, "to believe . . . the timing was not calculated to produce the greatest pressure."

Next Williams went into the subject of "irreparable loss" alleged by the YMCA complaint.

Discussing the court inspection of the half-finished YMCA building, Williams said, "I think all of us felt nauseated at the spectacle of imminent waste," in the event that water remained in the walls from TAIPEI, Formosa, Tuesday, Nov. 2.—The Nationalist Tachen Islands—believed marked for Red invasion—were pounded yesterday by nine Russian-built bombers, official advisers said.

The Tachens, northern anchor of Nationalist bases 200 miles north of Formosa, never have been bombed before although Red jets have been making frequent reconnaissance flights over them recently.

Thousands View Halloween Parade; "Get Out And Vote" Float Is Tops

POCONO Jaycees floated away with top honors in last night's mammoth Halloween parade.

Built on a theme of "Get Out And Vote," strictly non-partisan in nature throughout and boasting a Jaycee's brunette wife for glamor, the Jaycees float added a spark of election eve vitality to the twin-borough parade.

The parade was sponsored by merchants in East Stroudsburg and Stroudsburg as a cooperative effort. Prizes were awarded to five organizations marching in the parade, five bands which lent their colorful uniforms and music, three floats and 125 one dollar winners.

Organization awards went to Den Two, Pack 25 of the Cub Scouts; the Pocono Camera Club; the YMCA Indian Group; the SPCA and the Future Homemakers of America.

Winners of float prizes in addition to the Jaycees were the Anomink PTA float, showing a group of animals and Indians and the Young Republican Club with its giant elephant. The two groups tied for second place.

Five $25 awards went to bands from Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg High Schools, the American Legion Post, Middle Smithfield School and East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

Thousands of spectators, braving chilly temperature, lined both sides of the street as the parade moved from Stroudsburg High School across the interborough bridge to East Stroudsburg and back to the Legion Home, where prizes were announced.

Judges for the event were Mrs. William Bolcar, Mrs. Harry Andrews, Mrs. Arthur Henning, Mrs. Richard Shook, Mrs. Frank Armitage, Mrs. Charles Boltz, Miss Delores Dellaria and Miss Emma J. Shupp, all members of the Junior Women's Club of the Stroudsburgs.

Young Man Admits He Killed Girl

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Nov. 1.—Police say an unemployed laborer today admitted he beat to death a pretty high school girl whose half nude body was found in a shroud of autumn leaves.

State Police Sgt. John A. Krzyz testified at a hearing that Elijah Thompson Jr., 23, dictated a confession minutes before he was charged with murder.

"He told us he hit her on the head with a stone," said Dist. Atty. Richard P. Steward of Beaver County.

The slashed and battered body of Helen Jean Bryant, 16-year-old high school sophomore, was found by searchers Saturday in a leafy grave on a hillside 200 yards from her home. Her schoolbooks and a knife were found nearby. Thompson was picked up later that day.

Sea Search Continues For 42 Persons

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Searching eyes scanned endless miles of the rolling Atlantic today in a futile hunt for a big Navy transport plane that vanished late Saturday night with 42 persons aboard.

Painstakingly, some 200 planes and two dozen surface vessels from both sides of the Atlantic moved back and forth, up and down a 120-mile band of glaring ocean, hoping to find some trace of survivors.

But late this afternoon Vice Adm. Laurence T. Dubose, commander of the Eastern Sea Frontier, announced:

"No survivors, pieces of wreckage or parts of the plane have been obtained from the intensive search."

The admiral said the search will continue, however, with 25 to 30 ships but a reduced number of airplanes. With daylight he expected to have 100 airplanes aloft again.

The missing plane, a four-engine Super-Constellation, took off Saturday night from the Patuxent River Naval Air Station in Maryland.

Man Held In Girl's Death

JOHNSTOWN, Tuesday, Nov. 2.—Dist. Atty. Fred Fees announced early today that a 39-year-old man has been arrested in connection with the slaying of 6-year-old Karen Mauk. The girl's bruised body was found early last Friday in a cemetery near her home—only a few hours after she left on a "trick or treat" Halloween tour of the neighborhood.

Fees identified the man as Harry Gossard of nearby Conemaugh. The district attorney said:

"Gossard has been booked on suspicion. We expect to file a charge against him later today."

The district attorney would not elaborate although he declared: "Gossard is unemployed. He lives in Conemaugh about a block from the Mauk home."

Boy Hunter Has Successful Day

FRANKLIN, Nov. 1.—Teenager Robert Elliott returned home from a hunting trip today with this story:

He fired at a rabbit in the bush, dropping the rabbit in its tracks. The shot flushed out a pheasant which dove straight at startled Robert. The pheasant hit the barrel of Robert's shotgun and dropped dead at his feet.

Southern Democrats Would Head Majority Of Congress Committees If Party Wins

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—If the voters transfer control of Congress to the Democrats tomorrow, most committee chairmanships will go to Southerners.

That is standard procedure whenever Democrats get in the saddle, as a result of the seniority rule.

If the 82nd Congress—the one preceding the advent of the Eisenhower administration—members from the South headed 8 Senate and 10 House committees.

And now Southerners are in line to take over the top spot of 8 of the Senate's 15 committees and 13 of the 19 in the House in the event of a switchover.

A Democratic majority in the Senate would mean chairmanships for both senators from Georgia and Arkansas, and one each for members from Virginia, Louisiana, South Carolina and Alabama.

In the House a change of control would place three Tennesseans and three North Carolinians at the head of committees. The South Carolina and Texas delegations would find two of their fellows in top spots and Georgia, Virginia and Kentucky would get one apiece.

Sen. Walter George, dean of the Senate, would face a choice—if the Democrats get control—of returning to the chairmanship of the Finance Committee or taking over Foreign Relations.

He has said he would take foreign relations, replacing Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.), and leaving the Finance Committee gavel to Sen. Byrd of Virginia, taking over from Sen. Millikin (R-Colo.).

Sen. Russell also from Georgia, would be expected to resume the chair of the Armed Services group, a post he held until the GOP victory replaced him with Sen. Sclafani (R-Mass.).

Arkansas' Sen. McClellan tops the Democrats on the Government Operations Committee now headed by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) while his colleague, Sen. Fulbright, would be in line to replace Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.) as head of the Banking and Currency group.

Again in case of a Democratic victory, the Senate Agriculture Committee, now headed by Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) would return to the direction of Sen. Ellender of Louisiana. The Post Office and Civil Service Committee would go to Sen. Russell.

Expressions Of Confidence Sounded By Party Chairmen

BOTH PARTY chiefs in Monroe County last night predicted victory in today's elections.

Sheriff Jacob F. Altomere, Democratic county chairman, said the slate of Democratic candidates would carry Monroe County by a margin of 4,510 votes.

He said this year the Democratic Party had "conducted an honest and a fair campaign." He added that "smears and dirt had been avoided by the Democrats as much as humanly possible."

"It is the feeling of the Democratic Party," he said, "that the time is at hand for a change and that the general populace is of the same opinion."

Sheriff Altomere urged all voters to go to the polls and "exercise their right of franchise as that is the only way the will of the majority will prevail."

B. K. Williams, Republican county chairman, said:

"I think there will be a Republican victory in the State and in the County."

"The Republicans will carry the State by 100,000, and we hope to carry Monroe County."

State Seeks 80 Per Cent Voter Turnout

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1.—Pennsylvania made ready tonight to choose a new governor and play a major role in determining the make-up of the next Congress.

Upwards of three million Keystone state residents, perhaps more than four million, were expected to go to the polls between the 7 a.m. opening and 8 p.m. closing tomorrow. There were 5,153,845 eligible to vote, and last-minute drives by both parties aimed at a turnout of more than 80 per cent.

Weather forecasts called for a cold and cloudy day, with some snow flurries in mountain areas. That would be typical November weather, of a sort not likely to discourage many persons from balloting.

Both Republicans and Democrats claimed victory in advance of the actual count. Private forecasts—shared by some party leaders who were willing to talk off the record—generally agreed that close contest for the governorship would develop between the Republican nominee, Lt. Gov. Lloyd H. Wood, and Democrat George M. Leader, now a state senator.

GOP State Chairman Miles Horst predicted a "decisive and overwhelming" Republican victory but quoted no figures. State Sen. Joseph M. Barr, Democratic state chairman, said his party's candidates would win the state by 250,000.

In a campaign-concluding statement, Wood urged a heavy turnout of voters tomorrow and said: "The record of accomplishment under Republican administrations is so great that it completely overwhelms the criticisms of our opponents."

"The campaign of my opponent started out months ago in a planned and deliberate attempt to gain control of our state government by smears, unfounded charges and empty promises. It is winding up on the same tawdry note."

Said Leader: "We need in Harrisburg an administration conscious of the close interrelationship between all segments of our state and national economy. We need an administration which will storm the portals of Washington to insist upon policies to restore productivity and prosperity."

All of the 30 incumbent congressmen—19 Republicans and 11 Democrats—are seeking reelection and a majority are expected to return. Surveys based on close results two years ago, plus current conditions, indicate six of the districts are close. By winning all of these, plus holding their other incumbents, Democrats could attain a 16-14 majority in the state delegation. However, Republican leaders say they will do no worse than retain their present strength, and are talking about the possibility of upsetting two or three other Democrats.

Even more than usually, spokesmen for both parties say the vote result in Pennsylvania's two big cities, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, could determine the statewide result.

Philadelphia has 661,383 registered Republicans and 281,763 Democrats, but the GOP won here in 1953 by only 23,000 in a local election after Democrats had carried the city five successive years. GOP leaders say they'll win again, or at least hold the Democrats to no more than 25,000 margin which would be far below the 161,669 Democratic majority in the 1952 presidential race. One top Democrat said the key would be the size of the Philadelphia vote total, that if it reached 800,000 the Democratic margin would be close to 150,000.

Pittsburgh and surrounding Allegheny County have 337,301 registered Republicans and 454,980 Democrats. GOP leaders say the result there "will be close."

Democratic forecasts call for bigger margin than the 24,000 lead for Adlai Stevenson two years ago.

In addition to a governorship and Congress members, Pennsylvania will elect these other officers: Lieutenant Governor—Frank F. Truscott (R) or Roy E. Furman (D).

Secretary of Internal Affairs—Mrs. Gaynelle Dixon (R) or Miss Genevieve Blatt (D).

Superior Court — Three to be elected from Robert E. Woodside (R&D), Ralph T. Bell (R), George W. Griffith (R), Chester H. Rhodes (D) and F. Clair Ross (D).

Locally, voters will choose all 210 members of the lower house of the Legislature, and 25 members of the state Senate, half of the total.

Party Leaders Participate In Verbal Slugfest

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The 1954 battle for Congress ended tonight in a last angry flareup of charges and retorts, and the finale is being coupled with personal appeals from President Eisenhower and Adlai E. Stevenson for a big vote in tomorrow's national election.

As the day of decision approached, Democrats still forecast they would capture control of both houses of Congress. But Republicans claimed increasing hope of bucking the usual off-year reaction and repeating their 1952 victory.

The slow-to-start campaign, marked in the beginning at least by a good deal of disinterest on the part of the voters, heated up considerably in the final days and wound up in a verbal slugfest between the GOP top command and Democratic leader Stevenson.

In bitter words, Democratic National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell tonight accused the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee of distributing a "fake recording" over some radio stations. He said the spot announcement tries to make listeners believe that Russia, like the Democrats, want to see Republicans defeated.

Election Returns To Be Posted By The Daily Record

The Daily Record will provide its traditional up-to-the-minute bulletins on election trends tonight.

A complete compilation of voting for office in the election will be kept on a large bulletin board which will be placed on the front windows of the Record building.

Tabulations will be kept on these key offices: governor, Superior Court judges, U. S. representatives, assemblymen and state senator.

The board will be well-lighted. Where possible returns from individual districts will be posted as they arrive at the Record office. In all other cases a current total will be shown.

Polls Open From 7 A. M. To 8 P. M.

POLLS OPEN at 7 a.m. today and close at 8 p.m. throughout the county and State.

It will be an early-day for the commissioners' office. Law requires the office to be open throughout polling period. Board member Granville Shiffer will be present throughout the morning. Adolph Rake will be in the office throughout the afternoon, and all three commissioners will be present from about supertime on.

First returns will probably come in within minutes of the close of balloting. Last returns frequently come in from outlying districts around midnight or 1 a.m.

A public address system will be set up in the main hall of the courthouse. As returns come in, commissioners will read them over the public address system.

Chief Clerk Harry Taylor said several years' experience has indicated this is the swiftest and most accurate way to publicize the unofficial returns.

The returns will be telephoned from the courthouse by special direct line to The Daily Record office. These stories will be compiled from returns as they come in, and tabulations will be posted in the window at street level at intervals.

FBI Arrests Woman Red

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The arrest of a woman Communist leader who forsook her family to go underground for the party in 1951 was announced by FBI agents here today.

Martha Stone, 44, one-time state chairman of the Communist party in New Jersey, was arrested in a Bronx restaurant.

The woman, who had been active in Communist affairs since the age of 13, disappeared in the summer of 1951. Since then, the FBI said, she had operated in the Communist underground under assumed names.

So jealously did she guard her movements, the FBI said, that two crises within her family, within months of her disappearance, failed to bring about her reappearance.

Her 6-year-old son was struck by an automobile and hospitalized in November 1951. And her father, Julius Stone, died in the same month.

Mitchell said the "fake dramatization" has a man with a Russian accent saying: "Defeat the Republican candidates. That is the order from Moscow. Return America to a New Deal type administration!"

Mitchell said he would seek congressional and Federal Communications Commission investigations. He added: "I do not believe this malicious fakery will save the Republican party from defeat."

Today the White House branded "ridiculous" a charge by Stevenson, who was his party's 1952 presidential candidate, that Republican campaigners from Eisenhower down have embraced a "standard Communist propaganda" line.

Vice President Nixon also fired on Stevenson, declaring a "fanatical, left wing clique" of Democrats has used the "big lie" technique and even impugned the President's patriotism in a drive to elect an "anti-Eisenhower" Congress.

Stevenson said in a New York speech Saturday night that "the President himself has affirmed" the theme sounded by Nixon and other GOP orators—that "our prosperity in the past has been achieved only at the price of war and bloodshed."

"This course has been standard Communist propaganda for years . . . Stevenson said. Eisenhower contended in a series of campaign talks last Friday that war and prosperity somehow always had been linked together when the Democrats were in power.

Tonight the President, who has campaigned more actively in a mid-term election than any other chief executive in history, scheduled his final get-out-and-vote appeal from Denver at 9, on a CBS telecast and ABC-Mutual radio broadcast.

The President, saying that no American can "sit out" tomorrow's election for control of Congress, warned that anybody who does not vote takes a chance of having a minority of the people decide the issues for him or her.

For the Democrats, Stevenson booked his 11th hour appeal for 10:15 p.m. by radio (CBS) from New York.

So ends the struggle for control of the 84th Congress—the legislature with which Eisenhower will have to work through his second two years in office.

Tomorrow in all states except Maine, which votes ahead of everybody else in congressional elections, some 45 million Americans are expected to make their decision known at the polling places.

Thirty-seven senators in 24 states are to be elected, plus a Nebraska senator to serve until the new Congress meets next Jan. 3. Maine already has reelected GOP Sen. Margaret Chase Smith.

In the House, 432 of the 435 seats are at stake. Maine already has chosen three Republican representatives.

Finally, along with a host of other state and local officials, 23 governors are to be elected. There, too, Maine has spoken first—picking a Democratic governor in its Sept. 13 election.

In the closing days of the 83rd Congress, Republicans held a skin-of-the-teeth majority of one in the Senate and a scarcely weightier margin of three in the House.

The weather promised to be chilly in most of the country. The U. S. Weather Bureau said a cold air mass from Canada is sending temperatures down toward the "early winter" level, with no big storms in sight but a chance of

French End Foothold In India

PONDICHERY, India, Nov. 1 (AP)—Four small French Indian settlements were handed over to the New Delhi government today, ending France's 200-year-old foothold in this country.

Artillery salutes boomed across the Bay of Bengal as the French tricolor was lowered in Pondichery long the capital of French India, and the Indian flag was raised. Legal transfer of the territory after seven years of dickering between New Delhi and Paris was achieved by the signing of official documents here in Government House.

Kewal Singh, former Indian consul general in Pondichery and now commissioner for the new Indian state, signed for his country and Pierre Lande for France.

At the same time, de facto transfer was made to India of three other French settlements—Karikal, Yanam, and Mahe. All the settlements ceded are on India's east coast except Mahe, on the west coast.

In 1947, just after India won independence from Britain, France handed over to the New Delhi government several other small plots of land that once were trading posts. Chandernagore, near Calcutta, voted in 1949 to join India and a treaty for the French India was approved by the French in 1952.

The total territory transferred comprises about 196 square miles and has a combined population of some 325,000.

Portugal has not agreed to New Delhi's demands for the cession of Portuguese India, three small districts and an island on the northwest coast north of Bombay. Indian nationalists in recent months have invaded some of the Portuguese possessions, and clashes resulted with Portuguese authorities.

Prime Minister Nehru sent a message from Indochina to be read at today's ceremony in Pondichery. Nehru, who is on his way home from Red China, said India and France had "set in example of tolerance, good sense, and wisdom which if applied to other problems in the world might lead to successful results."

In an obvious reference to the problem of Portuguese India, Nehru added that in the "same way we shall continue to pursue, holding always to what we consider to be right and yet ever ready to be friends with even those who might oppose us."

Haas Sets Up Program For School Milk

HARRISBURG, Nov. 1 (AP)—The State Public Instruction Department today reported it will enter into contracts with local school districts for a special school milk subsidy by Nov. 15.

Dr. Francis B. Haas, superintendent of public instruction, said the contracts are the result of a federal program designed to increase milk consumption by school children and to channel more fluid milk into immediate use.

The U. S. Agriculture Department has allocated nearly two million dollars to Pennsylvania to be used to reimburse school districts taking part in the program.

Under the plan milk for school children will be reduced as much as four cents a pint, Haas said. He said that 21 area meetings are planned to bring school officials together to discuss details of the program.

Under the program local public schools will purchase milk from local dealers at rates established by the Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission.

Europe Is Apathetic Toward U. S. Election; Feels This Nation Has Stable Foreign Policy

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst
Europe's lack of interest in today's voting in the United States suggests this country has at long last won its battle to convince them it does have a continuous and fairly stable foreign policy.

In 1952 there was not only intense European interest in the American elections; there was, indeed, considerable worry and alarm.

This time the European press has demonstrated just about as much interest as the American press usually shows in parliamentary elections over there, which is very little.

For one thing, the change of regime from Democratic to Republican in 1952 gave the United States a chance to demonstrate that, while there might be shifts in tactics from time to time, her objectives were fixed and had general support.

For another thing, the United States displayed considerable flexibility in the recent European shift from the supranational concepts embodied in the proposed European Defense Community to the military concepts of the Western European Union. In the end, by continuing her insistence only on doing something, leaving the Europeans to work it out in their own way, the United States demonstrated she was in Europe to stay, but as a partner rather than a dominating force.

That is extremely important now to the manner in which Europe goes about implementing the program. It tends to quiet fears, which were quite widespread, that the United States, looking toward an eventual war with Russia, was trying to tie Europe into a military bloc for her own purposes rather than primarily for Europe's own benefit.

By going ahead with WEU the Europeans, too, know that they are qualifying for continued American aid, loss of which had been threatened by congressional exasperation over the delays on EDC.

The very close party margins in the last Congress, continuing into the next one, also serve to show Europe there isn't much from which to choose in American politics as it affects them, and that there will be sufficient coalition votes to protect the general policy.

In this respect they seem to have adopted an attitude close to that of many Americans who, suffering from no great fears and feeling no real enthusiasms, just won't go to the polls today.

Diabetes Detection Drive To Take Place Here Nov. 14-20

Free Tests To Be Made For Citizens

A NEW kind of "detective story" will be unfolded Nov. 14-20 in Monroe County.

This week has been set aside as the 1954 diabetes detection drive. Local doctors, drug stores and Monroe County General Hospital will cooperate in the drive to find persons suffering from undiscovered diabetes.

Heading the diabetes detection drive in Monroe County is Dr. Frederick Munson, East Stroudsburg, assisted by other officers and members of the Monroe County Medical Society.

In announcing plans for the 1954 drive, Dr. Munson said last night that there are an estimated one million Americans who have diabetes but do not know they have it. For this reason, he said, they are not getting the medical care they need.

Early diagnosis of diabetes is of the greatest importance, Dr. Munson said. The screening test, such as the mass-scale drive in Monroe County, helps find three, four or more diabetes victims each time it is carried out.

Last year at least three cases of unknown diabetes were found in Monroe County, officials pointed out.

Diabetes is a chronic ailment in which the body cannot make full use of some of the food it takes in such as sugars and starches. Instead of being stored or turned into energy these food elements, in the form of sugar, increase in the blood until there is more than it can hold.

Then the sugar is passed into the urine. Too much sugar in the blood and urine is a sign of diabetes. A simple test for sugar in the urine or excessive sugar in the blood will bring the condition to light. From that point onward, the proper and often life-saving medical care may be provided.

In the full-scale diabetes detection drive being carried out in Monroe County during the week of Nov. 14, urine samples will be the testing method used.

All Monroe County residents are urged to take part in the detection drive. There is no charge for the tests made.

Urine samples may be left at any local drugstore. They will be picked up by Red Cross Girl Leaders who will take them to the General Hospital where urinalyses will be made of the specimens.

Or, if the resident would rather, he may leave the urine sample with his doctor who will make the urinalysis in his own office.

In cases where the samples are left in drugstores the bottles should be carefully and plainly labeled with both the name of the person making the sample and his doctor's name.

Samples will be collected and tested throughout the week of the drive, Dr. Munson said.

Vote Drives Come To End

show flurries in some northern areas and occasional rain in the East.

In general, the heat of the campaign has risen while the mercury dropped.

For weeks most neutrals figured the Democrats a cinch to win the House and quite possibly the Senate, too. The Republicans admitted they themselves were running scared. But in the past week or 10 days they started running so hard they began to scare the Democrats.

Eisenhower himself plunged headlong into the campaign—touring critical states by air, cruising the streets of New York by car, personally telephoning rank-and-file voters in the hope of starting a chain reaction of jingling GOP phone bells.

Democrats countered with what they called a "walkathon," urging their faithful to use shoe leather instead of the telephone to get out the vote.

In the final hours of the campaign, the politically meaningful word "prosperity" was hurled about by both sides as perhaps the top campaign issue—the GOP promising "prosperity without war," the Democrats hammering on unemployment in some sections of the country and predicting it will get worse unless they are returned to control of Congress.

The Republicans were hitting hard, too, on something Eisenhower once said would be a dead issue by election time—the Communists-in-government question. Some irate Democrats felt the opposition was gaining ground by its steady insistence that it takes Republicans to "clean the Communists out of government."

Most neutrals figured the Republicans gained ground in the past 10 days. Whether they gained enough to retain their slippery hold on Congress, only the election will tell.

In many if not most states local issues—ranging from the past business activities of Democratic candidate—for-governor Averell Harriman in New York to the alleged comments of a Chicago can-

Death Claims Mrs. Sebring, Cherry Lane

MRS. CORA J. Sebring, widow of Hiram Sebring, of Cherry Lane, died suddenly at 87 E. Broad, East Stroudsburg, yesterday at noon. She was 76 years old.

Daughter of the late Christine and George R. Cramer she had lived in the Cherry Lane section of Monroe County all her life. Surviving are six sons, Lewis, Tannersville; Clarence, Scranton; George, East Stroudsburg; Leroy, Reeders; Chester and Theodore, East Stroudsburg RD; a daughter, Mrs. Martin Brennan, Mount Pocono; a brother, Joseph Cramer, Wycombe, Pa.; a sister, Mrs. Edward Shiffer, East Stroudsburg; 27 grandchildren; 28 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. at Gantzhorn funeral home, Tannersville, with burial in Cherry Lane Cemetery. Rev. Ralph Feltham will officiate. Friends may call at the funeral home Wednesday after 7 p.m. didate about the morals of policemen's wives—played a part in determining the outcome.

So did the personal doings of the candidates. In California, for instance, Democrat James Roosevelt ran for Congress in spite of a sensational divorce case. In Utah, GOP Rep. Douglas R. Stringfellow got out of his reelection race when his story of heroic secret missions in World War II turned out to be a masquerade.

But at the top level—with ex-President Harry Truman sitting it out, for the most part—it was Stevenson against the GOP field in the ultimate blaze of campaign oratory. And there was no doubt the former Illinois governor had the Republicans' goat.

Nixon delivered his broadside in a statement telegraphed to editors from Denver. He declared millions of Democrats resent "the Stevenson-Truman campaign to elect an anti-Eisenhower, ADA, left wing Congress."

(ADA is a political organization describing itself as anti-Communist and devoted to the principles of the New Deal.)

Nixon said this "Stevenson-Truman campaign" is made up of:

"Quips—50 per cent.
"Insuendo and name calling—45 per cent.
"Honest discussion of the issues—5 per cent."

"It is apparent," Nixon added, "that they cannot forget that theirs was the 5 per cent administration."

GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall likewise swung on Stevenson, declaring his New York speech "set an all-time high, probably unbeatable record for marathon use of gloom, doom, disaster and generally sad sack verbiage."

In the New York speech Stevenson, besides linking Eisenhower with the prosperity-and-war issue, took exception to the President's statement that election of a Democratic Congress would result in a political cold war in the national government.

"There can be no war colder, or hotter, than the internal conflict within the Republican party," Stevenson said.

Strangely missing from the top headlines in this campaign was a name that often dominated them until recently—that of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

McCarthy, too has been mostly sitting this one out. A special Senate committee has recommended he be censured on charges of unbecoming conduct. Regardless of the election outcome, the Senate is scheduled to reconvene in Washington Nov. 8 for formal consideration of the charges.

Four Wheel Drive Fire Truck Delivered At Mount Pocono

MOUNT POCONO—A specially equipped fire truck was delivered to the fire company here yesterday to provide the fire fighters with a maximum efficiency piece of equipment to battle woods and brush fires and property in out-of-the-way places.

Delivered by U. G. Mick Jr., Cresco car dealer, the fire truck not only has special mechanical features, but some special fire fighting attachments.

The truck is a four-wheel drive affair with "no-spin" differentials which make it impossible for any one of the four wheels to spin when stuck in the mud or snow, thus delivering maximum pull.

The rugged new vehicle is capable of moving through rough territory during a woods or field fire and spray water on the fire twenty feet on each side of the truck. A special tank has been installed on the vehicle.

The tank-equipped truck can also be used as a carrier to supply to other booster-tank equipped trucks.

Present during the delivery ceremonies yesterday were Mr. Mick, Fire Chief Ernest Bisbing, Asst. Chief Charles Brock and Edward K. Anderson, of the H. & H. Tank Co.

New License Opposed By Association

MONROE COUNTY Retail Liquor Dealers Association is against issuing any new liquor licenses in the area, it came out yesterday in an appeal hearing in county court.

The case involved Mr. and Mrs. Jack M. Vinyard, operators of the Knotty Pine Spaghetti House in Tannersville, who were refused a liquor license by the State Liquor Control Board.

Vinyards were represented by Maxwell H. Cohen in the hearing before President Judge Fred W. Davis. Paul Selecky represented the Liquor Control Board.

The control board held a hearing on the request for license on Aug. 24, 1953, in Wilkes-Barre.

At that hearing, according to Cohen, Daniel Mulligan of Pocono Pines testified as the "business agent" of the Monroe County Liquor Dealers Association.

He testified there had been a meeting of the association with 18 members present; that this was a quorum; and that it had been voted to "work against the issuance of new licenses in the area," Cohen said. Cohen's brief said Mulligan told of being at the Wilkes-Barre hearing to "oppose all new licenses."

Cohen argued there was a need for an establishment in Pocono Township where patrons could get good food and drinks, and that the big population boost had increased this need, especially in summer.

It was within the control board's discretion to grant more licenses than normal quota called for if the area was classified as resort area.

The control board said there were enough places in the township already which served food and liquor.

Kresge Twins Enter Hospital; Boy's Illness Is Diagnosed As Polio; Pupils To Get GG

GILBERT—The Kresge twins—Martin and Marlene—have been taken to St. Luke's Hospital, Bethlehem, where diagnosis showed yesterday that Martin is suffering from polio.

No definite diagnosis of polio was given for Marlene by the hospital, according to Dr. Thomas Williams, Gilbert physician in charge of the case for the family.

Former County Resident Dies

TANNERSVILLE — Charles J. Granacher, nephew of the late Benjamin Granacher, died Oct. 17, at a hospital in Pittsburgh.

He had been living at Hancock, N. Y., where burial took place. He had been ill all summer. Surviving are his wife, a semi-invalid, and son, Willard.

He was a student at the Tannersville school in his youth and is remembered by many former friends in this section. He was a printer at the International Correspondence School, Scranton, until his retirement two years ago.

Wildrick Speaks At Bangor High Guidance Session

BANGOR — Dr. John R. Wildrick, head of secondary education department at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, was speaker and consultant at the vocational guidance conference yesterday at the High School here.

Theme was teaching. Forty-five ninth and twelfth graders attended. Wildrick discussed entrance procedures in colleges, requirements for teaching success, employment prospects and cost of preparation for a career.

Conference chairman was Arnold Wynne. Next conference will be Nov. 15: textile machine operation and mechanics.

The hospital said there was no evidence of paralysis in Marlene's tests, Williams said. The diagnosis was definitely positive for the boy, he indicated.

The 11-year-old children are the son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Kresge, Gilbert. They were taken to the Bethlehem hospital Sunday morning, Williams said.

Monroe County Health Officer Dr. R. Frederick Jones said last night that local officials had enough gamma globulin—a blood fraction used in inoculations against polio—on hand to take care of the immediate family of the children.

A rush call for additional GG was made to Harrisburg as soon as the case was diagnosed, Dr. Jones said. This supply, he said, would probably arrive in Stroudsburg sometime today.

All children in the twins' class at Polk Township School in Kresgeville will be inoculated with gamma globulin, according to Dr. John Martucci, school physician.

No exact date for the full-scale inoculations can be set until the vaccine arrives. An estimated 40 children or more will be given the gamma globulin.

Monroe County's only previous mass inoculation was staged at Reeders school in Jackson Township two weeks ago. More than 100 children were inoculated there.

Former Pro Coach Advises Attention For Extra Point

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP)—Football coaches should either devote more attention to the point after touchdown or abolish it.

That's the suggestion of Steve Owen, former coach of the New York football Giants, who says he's seeing the game in a different light now that he can watch a whole game instead of just the part his team plays.

Owen, paying his first visit to the weekly session of the New York Football Writers association since he was dropped as Giant coach last winter, touched off a lively discussion by his criticism of the conversion.

Lou Little of Columbia, chairman of the coaches' rules committee, said the issue had appeared on the questionnaire sent out to the coaches at least three times in the past 10 years and each time they had voted by a large margin not to make any changes.

Owen, conceding the 1st American chance to stop the foreign invaders, was withdrawn from the $65,000 Washington, D. C., International race today because of an injury.

Boston Coach, Player Draw Heavy Fines

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP)—Arnold "Red" Auerbach, coach of the Boston Celtics, and Bob Cousy, one of his star players, were fined $175 today by President Maurice Podoloff of the National Basketball Association.

Auerbach was assessed $100 and Cousy $75 for what Podoloff said was unsportsmanlike conduct and abusive language at the end of Saturday's Boston-Rochester game at Rochester.

The game was televised nationally.

Auerbach and Cousy became angered when Referee Arnold Hefi called a foul on Boston's Ed Macauley with the score tied 95-95 and seconds remaining in the game. Rochester won 98-95.

Family Night Supper Held By Adventists

MEMBERS of the local Adventist Church gathered at the Municipal Building on Saturday night for a "Family Night" supper and entertainment. Approximately one hundred persons were in attendance.

Women of the Dorcas Society were in charge of table decorations.

At the conclusion of the dinner a program of entertainment was provided for the children, under the direction of Clifford Okuno, who showed colored slides of previous meetings of the church group and of scenery surrounding the grounds of the Blue Mountain Academy, the property recently purchased by the denomination for a Christian School, located near Hamburg. He also showed slides of the ground breaking ceremony of the school which is now showing great progress.

Rev. William Bornstein also presented a motion picture from the Dept. of Forest and Waters on "Soil Conservation," and extended an invitation to the young people to attend an out-door camp fire scheduled for Nov. 27.

After the indoor entertainment was completed the children were grouped into small bands, under adult supervision, and called at homes in the surrounding neighborhood to distribute literature neatly wrapped in black and orange crepe paper. Instead of masquerading and playing pranks and tricks on the people.

This is what they said when the folks answered the door:

"Tis Trick or Treat tonight
But that's not why we're here.
We're gathering canned food for the needy poor
To spread Thanksgiving cheer."

A generous amount of donations were received and all will go into baskets to be distributed to the less fortunate at Thanksgiving time. Later after returning to the Municipal Building it was agreed by all that this type of calling on friends and neighbors was far superior and had a lot more usefulness than the usual "Trick or Treat" Halloween pranks.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. LaBar and Linda and Peter LaBar made a week-end trip to Colchuck, N. H., to visit Mr. LaBar's father and step-mother, Mr. and Mrs. Harry LaBar. They drove up Saturday, Oct. 23 and returned Monday, Oct. 25. The New Hampshire LaBars wanted Henry Jackson to coach them as to the use of a new television.

The borough water department has had additional water pipe laid on Shepard avenue, stemming from the tank on the Heights. It was needed to improve water pressure for users.

Both Parties Seem To Ignore Pledge Against Name Calling

By ARTHUR EDSON
WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (AP).—On Sept. 14 the national chairmen of both parties met and solemnly pledged that this would be a clean, no-name-calling campaign.

Everything was to be as pure as snow. No personal vilification, no character defamation, no scurrilous attacks, no malicious or unfounded accusations, no distorting or misrepresenting the facts about any candidate.

Republican Leonard Hall said: "It is an admirable pledge. It should be seriously and earnestly supported."

ago, and if there ever was a completely forgotten pledge, this appears to be it.

Since Sept. 14: The President has been accused of speaking "thoughtlessly and carelessly" and thereby putting out "standard Communist propaganda."

His opponent in the presidential race two years ago has been accused of being "hysterical, scurrilous and vicious" and weak in his attitude toward Communists in government. He also has been described as one who operates on a "ward heeler level."

The vice president has been called a slanderer, a liar and a snow white. He also is described as McCarthy in a white collar.

A Cabinet officer in New Deal days has been accused of possible perjury of being blind in the presence of bribery and of union busting.

And so on and on.

What happened to the pledge of Sept. 14 is pretty well summed up by Adlai Stevenson. He was speaking of the Republican party, but it seems to apply to both.

"If Thomas Jefferson escapes without being charged with burglary or treachery," Stevenson said, "it will be a wonder."
